

TITLE, INVESTIGATORS

Promotion of egg and eggshell powder consumption improve nutritional status of children of under two years of age: A Cluster Randomized Controlled Community Trial in Halaba Special Woreda, SNNPR, Ethiopia

By

Susan Whiting<sup>1</sup>, Hank Classen<sup>2</sup>, Hassan Vatanparast<sup>3</sup>, Anteneh Omer<sup>4</sup>Demmelash Mulualems<sup>5</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Susan Whiting, PhD Professor of Nutrition

College of Pharmacy and Nutrition, University of Saskatchewan

Office: 306-966-5837 Susan.whiting@usask.ca

<sup>2</sup> Hank Classen, PhD Distinguished Professor of Animal and Poultry Sciences and NSERC

Industrial Research Chair, College of Agriculture and Bioresources,

University of Saskatchewan

Office: 306-966-6600 hank.classes@usask.ca

<sup>3</sup> Hassan Vatanparast, MD PhD Associate Professor of Nutrition, College of Pharmacy and Nutrition, Associate Professor of Public Health, School of Public Health

University of Saskatchewan

Office: 306-966-6341 h.vatan@usask.ca

Collaborators:

<sup>4</sup>Anteneh Omer, BSc, MSc (Tropical and Infectious Diseases)

Part-time Student in Masters of Applied Human Nutrition, School of Nutrition, Food Science and Technology, Hawassa University

UNICEF ETHIOPIA Nutrition Officer, Community Based Nutrition (CBN) Program

+251-91-1056030 antenehomer@yahoo.com

<sup>5</sup>Demmelash Mulualem, BSc MSc

Hawassa University, College of Agriculture

School of Nutrition, Food Science and Technology,

Tel. +251-220 03 41

demia27kt@yahoo.com